IN THE UNIVERSITY
MAN'S CLOTHES / / /
FIRST SEMESTER

1924-25

JACKETS: Straight, short and easy, but note: One-button, Two-button and Three-button Single Breasters—Two-button Double Breasters.

Lapels are long and wide and the pockets are placed a trifle lower.

VESTS: Short and Straight Across.

TROUSERS: Wide Bottoms, of course, but note: Higher-waisted and with other details that may not be found elsewhere.

TOP COATS and WINTER OVERCOATS: Tubular is the only thing. Our secret is in the Drape. Collars that are made to be worn turned up.

FABRICS: Imported English Fabrics—Tweeds, Cheviots and Fine American Weaves in bright Fall shades and patterns. Emphasis on "London Lavender" backgrounds with combinations of gray, blue and brown.

Our Super-Value prices may seem of minor importance just now, but later on, say toward Christmas, you'll appreciate their present helpful and conserving effect on your allowance.

Brother BIG BOY is Back!

ING, PHONE BELL, RING! Already a dozen Necktarines have rung "CAMPus One-Nine-Two-Four" and feverishly asked: "Is the Big Boy There?"

Lovely Neurotics—Hectic Vestals—Balloon-bobbed Ladies—they're all in Paroxysms of Anxiety to test the Big Boy's Stuff for Fall.

What brand of Hilarious Diction will he Spill? What are his stories? And most important of all—

How Does He Look?

But the Big Boy is Prepared. He has the New Ideas in Clothes for University Men. True, the Village Cut-Ups, even to the Dapper Motor Bandits, have "stolen his last year's stuff" and are wearing Wide Trousers.

But the Big Boy has been to Perry's and his Clothes have the Points of Difference that Indicate 1924-25 without a word.

As a football player he's a good poet

LET'S admit that all men are not born for gridiron honors, just as all men are not born poets.

You can admire a man's grit for plugging away at the thing that comes hardest to him. He does derive benefit in developing himself where he is weakest. But to achieve real success it is only common wisdom to pick out the line for which you have a natural aptitude—and go to it.

Particularly if you are a freshman it may be useful to remind you of this principle, because it can help you start off on the right foot in both your campus activities and your college courses.

If your fingers love the feel of a pencil, why not obey that impulse and come out for the publications? You can serve Alma Mater and yourself better as a first-class editor than a third-class halfback.

Similarly, when it comes to electing your college courses, you will be happier and more efficient if you choose in accordance with your natural aptitude.

The world needs many types of men. Find your line, and your college course will be a preparation for a greater success.

Beacons of the sky

Between Cleveland and Rock Springs, Wyo., along the night route of the air mail service, tall beacons have been placed every twenty-five miles.

This achievement has been made possible by engineers of the Illuminating Engineering Laboratories of the General Electric Company, working with officials of the Post Office Department. A startling achievement now will be a commonplace of life in the new America which you will inherit.

If you are interested to learn more about what electricity is doing, write for Reprint No. AR391 containing a complete set of these advertisements.

Revolving on great steel towers, General Electric searchlights, totaling 1,992,000,000 candle-power, blaze a path of light for the airplane pilot.

What the lighthouse is to the ocean navigator, these beacons are to the conquerors of the air.

A FOOL (Editor) THERE WAS

ACCORDING to some, who are undoubtedly endowed with much more sense than we poor ordinary mortals, the editor is a fool for running an EXCHANGE NUMBER. Not only is BURRO going to become the laughing stock of all the other college comics, but it is flying off at a tangent to the direction which all nice, well behaved little college funny bone ticklers should follow. Isn't it a shame? Our one and only college comic is going to the dogs, and absolutely nothing that the wise men say, seems to be able to avert the disaster of a precipitous decline to the realms of puppydom! Isn't it a pity that the wise men cannot be the ones who run things?—they try so hard!

The editorial fool, (in his very foolish way), cannot help but feel that the border line between wisdom and foolishness is almost as indeterminate as were some of those lines and curves, which the math. profs. used to try to draw, in our calculus days, of yore. And who can say, upon which side the wise man stands;—and which, the fool?

ART—COMPETITION—ED'L.

WITH this issue, BURRO formally starts the competition for membership on the art and editorial staffs.

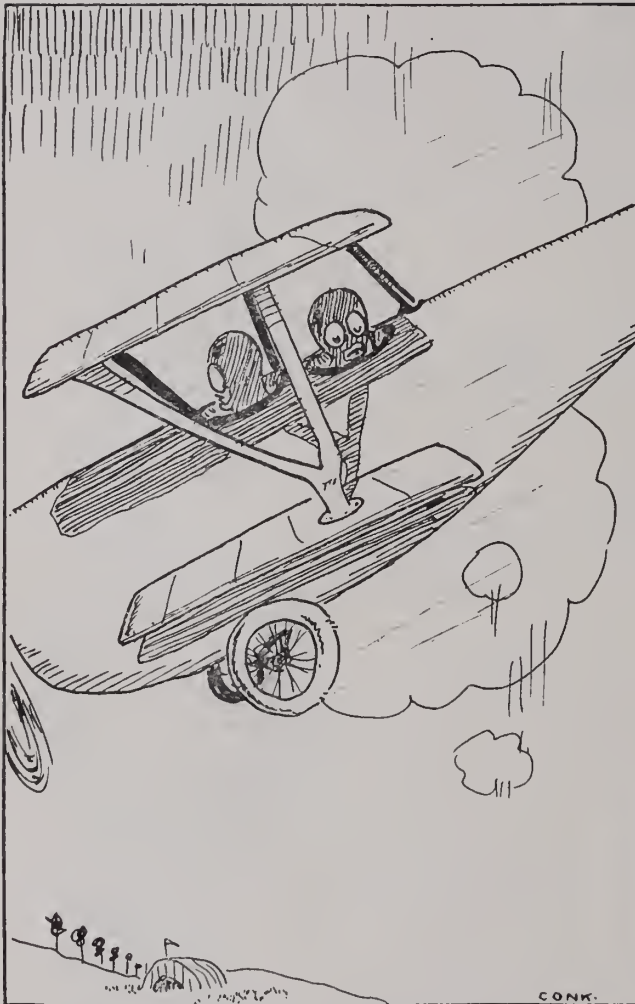

This year's competition will be run along different lines than those heretofore. There will be no men taken on whose work appears in fewer than three CONSECUTIVE issues of THE BURR, and then, only if it is of "A No. 1" grade. The idea is not, only to admit the men whose work is a finished product, but to correct the efforts of the man who shows promise, and is a hard worker also; the kind of a man who constantly improves until he is up to the standard which should be expected of THE BURR. Thus, no one will be taken on in less than three issues, but the ultimate limit will depend on the individual himself.

Any man, who turns in a joke or any material which has appeared in any other publication, will be summarily dropped from the list of competitors.

The editor will be more than glad to discuss contributions personally, with any of the contributors.

The competition is open to ALL classes.

NOW that "Ye Editore" has the burden off his chest, he wishes in behalf of BURRO to extend the heartiest welcome to those who have succeeded in getting back for a fifth or sixth year, as well as ye "uglier ducklings" of ye time honored Freshman class. Ye Editore, after a glance at the subscription list, can tell just how popular BURRO is going to be during the coming year, and wishes to say that he, as well as the rest of the board has his coat off, and sleeves rolled up with the sole purpose of making this the "Bumper" year for our college comic..... LET'S GO.

Choicy

*It was late in last September,
Or perhaps it was November,
That I staggered down the street
With drunken pride.
But my feet began to stutter,
So I lay down in the gutter
And a pig came 'long and lay down
by my side.*

*My brain was all a flutter,
As I lay there in the gutter,
And a lady passing by
Was heard to say
"You can tell a man that boozes
By the kind of friend he chooses"
And the gol darned pig got up
And walked away.*

North American.

"You know, Helen, I find I really don't believe in marriage."

"What's the matter, Mabel? Won't his wife let him have a divorce?"

(Brown Jug)

HUMBUG

1st Stude—"I was with Mary in the Library last night when the lights went out."

2nd Stude—"What did you do?"

1st Stude—"Nothing!"

2nd Stude—"Couldn't you find her?"

Which are never completed alone,

AND THE VILLIAN STILL PURSUED HER

A Modern Mellow Drama in One Scene

By Maria Hossack

They were quite alone in his apartment, "Let me go," she commanded.

He stood with his back to the door, twirling the key on his little finger. A cynical smile twisted his lips.

"How dare you!" she cried. and flung at him with small round fists.

He tossed the key into the air, catching it lightly a few inches above her snatching hand.

"Let me go," she panted. "How dare you!"

The corners of his eyes shot into amused wrinkles. She was quite delightful when aroused.

"Please let me go," she stormed in a tear-edged voice.

"Not tonight, dear."

He pointed to an adjoining door where a slant of white bed-spread showed.

"There's the door you'll take when you leave this room."

"No, no," she sobbed, and sank into his favorite chair

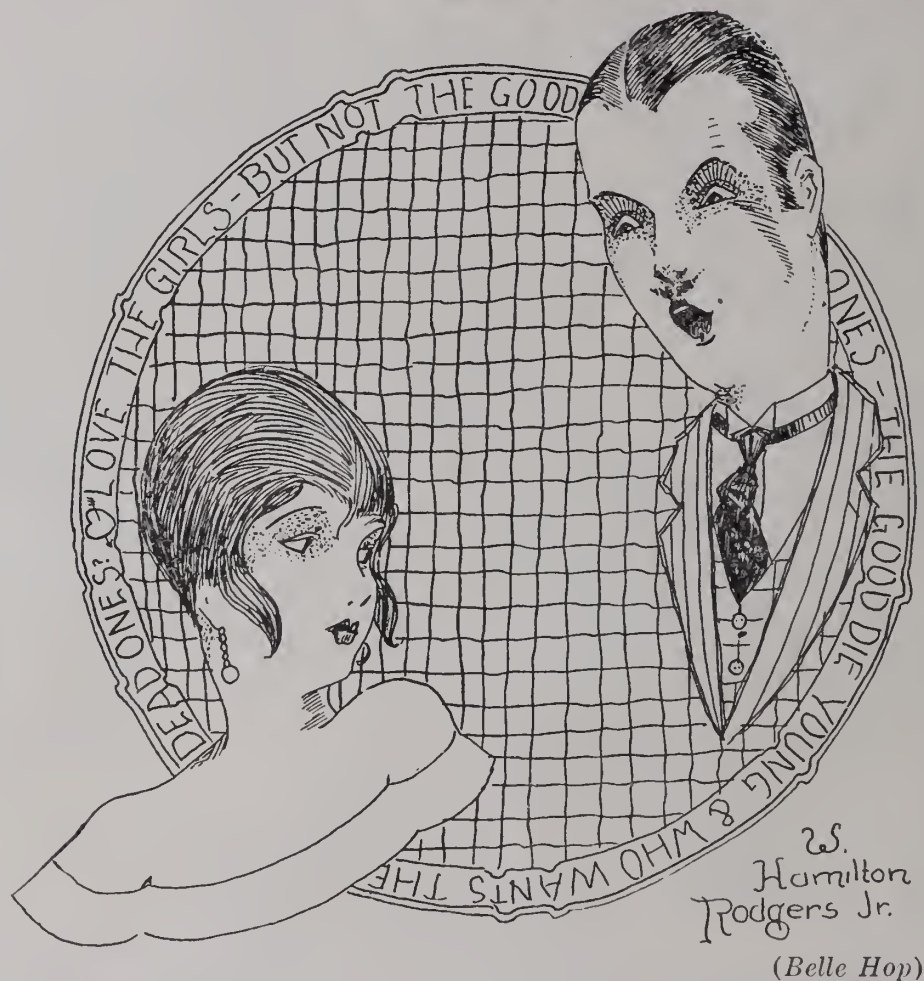

His worldly eye rested on her slim body in its scanty clothing, on the small, closely-bobbed head, on the quivering lips ripe with rouge, on the smooth cheeks fresh with powder, on the beaded lashes heavy with mystery.

"You belong to me," he mused. He took a step toward her.

Fio: Why did Dot have her bedroom suite changed?
 Lewis: Probably some objection. You see it was birds eye maple.
 (Punch Bowl)

Four Years Out—"What is the difference between fish and a fool?"

Four Years In—"I'll bite. What is the difference?"

Four Years Out—"Well, if you bite, there isn't any."

Lyre.

*I slept with my feet out the window,
In order to air out my bed;
I slept with my feet out the window,
In the morning my neighbors were dead.*
(Wasp)

Medium—"Is there a departed spirit with whom you would like to communicate?"

He—(eagerly)—"Yes."

"Who?"

"Johnie Walker."

Gargoyle.

"Six of my sons are studying to be artists and writers, the seventh is learning to be a bricklayer."

"Aren't you rather optimistic, thinking that he can support the six of them?"—

Vanity Fair's Assembled Wardrobe

An Assortment of Luxuries for the Bath and Dressing-room of the Fastidious Man

The man with taste no longer wants just the coat pajamas which have nothing more unusual about them than the fine quality of material of which they may be made, but now demands a more comely garment than has hitherto been made, which represents a lounging suit more than pajamas, and which is cut with collars, fancy cuffs, a turn-up at the bottom of the trousers, and the latest touch of all, a belt or sash to tie at the waist. Such a belt may be worn when out of bed only, if it be found uncomfortable after retiring, but as it makes a neater and more tidy thing out of the coat of the pajamas than when it is worn in the usual loose way, its advantages are being recognized. Today, the pajamas suit for lounging is now made without buttons, and is merely crossed over and held by the belt just as the smartest dressing gowns are fastened. For cold weather, the pajamas suit is often not sufficiently warm, therefore, one of the robes, such as illustrated above, which is imported by one of the smart shops in New York, is a luxury that would easily become a necessity to any man who sees it. Such a robe is either made of silk and lined with some soft woolen material, or of gaily patterned linen, lined with towelling. For the dressing-room, a good-looking yet comfortable slipper is the ideal. Since the patent leather slipper trimmed with bright coloured leather is heeled with rubber just as walking shoes are, the man who loves his comfort need look no further. Such slippers have the ease of pumps yet the comfort and support of walking shoes. A slipper with a low heel is naturally far less tiring than a flat soled slipper because it gives the same pitch to a man's body that he is used to when in walking shoes. The big foulard handkerchief comes in to use for dressing room and lounging wear, as well as it does for sport. One of these may be folded neatly about the throat of the low-cut, comfortable lounging pajamas or robe, giving a more neatly attired appearance, yet the same comfort and feeling of freedom. The type of lounging pajamas illustrated above is now made in all manner of materials, both expensive and inexpensive, but as it is the cut that counts, there is no reason why any man of taste can not indulge himself without going beyond the limits of his pocketbook.

Jewelry in Sets — The Proper Thing

Under the heading of useful jewelry for men comes cigarette cases, match safes, belt buckles, watches and watch chains, key rings and collar pins. As far as possible, these things should match, or be chosen so that they are harmonious one with the other. Many of these are made in a matching design, as for example, the flat silver cigarette case, match safe, and belt buckle, illustrated above, which are the happy invention of some of the manufacturers who make such articles of silver, gold, platinum or a combination of the three. The flat silver cigarette case, traced in "engine-turned" stripes with a small square for initials or a monogram, is what style dictates today. It is in much better taste than if the match safe, fastened to the end of the watch chain, the belt buckle and the cigarette case were not of the same design and metal. Sets of this kind have the advantage of being in good taste, yet inexpensive. And since the well turned out man is the result of a knowledge in matters of dress combined with instinctive good taste, it can be readily understood that he need not be an extravagant man or even a man of considerable means. A watch should be simple in design, but good in quality. If the design be right, it may be in silver or white gold instead of the more luxurious platinum, for it is the taste that counts. In whatever metals a man's jewelry is wrought it should always be simple in design—that is one of the first rules. The second rule is that rings should be worn on the little finger of the left hand, and third, but most important, is that the pins should never be worn fastened in the shirt front under a bow tie.

If you are interested in any question of dress or etiquette, write the "Well Dressed Man," care the (Daily Blank) and your letter will receive prompt and careful attention. Do not fail to give accurate address.

IT is exactly what its name indicates—College Humor—your humor. When it is advertised in street cars and PRINTER'S INK; when it is broadcasted by radio and whenever College Humor is read it popularizes your comic.

IT is read by approximately 3,000,000 people each issue and focuses the attention of everybody on the college comics.

And the Villian Pursued Her

She sprang to her feet, and retreated slowly, never taking her eyes from his face.

Back, back—she paused at the bedroom door. Her look was one of courageous scorn.

"I'll hate you forever and ever," she said and flung herself face downward across the bed.

He drew his favorite chair under the reading lamp.

"Good Lord," he sighed. "It's awful to be the father of a sixteen-year-old girl."
